MASSILLON FAN DIES IN CRASH

MT. GILEAD MAN SLAYS WOMAN, ENDS OWN LIFE

Tragedy Follows Word That Victim's Soldier-Husband Returning From Pacific.

MT. GILEAD—A coroner's verdict of murder and suicide was returned today in the slaying last night of a 25-year-old woman in a Mt. Gilead restaurant and the subsequent self-destruction of her slayer.

Mrs. Mary Martha Smith, of Mt. Gilead, died in Mansfield General hospital at 10:30 p. m., 25 minutes after she was shot three times in the Traxler-Rule restaurant, police reported.

Police said Robert Pearson, 32, shot Mrs. Smith in the head, left side and arm before horrified onlookers, then held cafe patrons at gun point before fleeing out the front door of the establishment.

State Highway Patrolman W. H. Culp a few minutes later broke into Pearson's room at the Globe hotel, where he found him mortally wounded with a bullet wound behind his right ear. A .765 MM. German automatic was found at his side.

Argued in Cafe.

Sheriff Tom England said a heated argument arose in the restaurant after Mrs. Smith refused to accompany Pearson to Galion.

Earlier in the day, according to Sheriff England, Mrs. Smith had received word from her husband, Marine Don J. Smith, that he had arrived on the west coast from overseas, and would be home soon.

Police said Pearson had been separated from his Canadian-born wife for several months, but had known Mrs. Smith for only a short time. Mrs. Pearson recently returned to Canada, the sheriff said.

Pearson was an employe of the Mt. Gilead Manufacturing company.

Services Monday.

Private funeral services for Pearson will be held at 11 a. m. Monday at the Craven funeral home, with Rev. Ray McMillan officiating. Burial will be in Fulton cemetery.

Pearson leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pearson, Mt. Gilead; two sisters, Mrs. Faye Smith, Mansfield, and Mrs. May Katherine Wolfinger, Mt. Gilead; a brother, Foye Pearson, Columbus, and his wife, Mrs. Margaret Pearson, of Canada.

Funeral services for Mrs. Smith are awaiting the return of her husband. She also leaves her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Gault, in southern Ohio.

KALIS CHARGED

Two First Degree Counts Filed In Killings.

Two counts of first degree murder were filed in municipal court this morning against Michael Kalis, 52-year-old steelworker, in the pistol slayings of his wife, Helen, 42, and son, John, 20, Thursday morning.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates signed the complaints and County Prosecutor Theodore Lutz issued the warrants as Kalis was reported in "fair" condition in General hospital.

Kalis killed his wife and son in what appeared to be a family quarrel and then used the .38 caliber weapon to shoot himself in the head in an apparent attempt at suicide. The shooting occurred at the Kalis home, 388 Springmill street.

Hindu Refugees Flee In Panic

CALCUTTA — (INS) — Tens of thousands of panic-stricken Hindus were streaming today over the roads to the railroad junction town of Chandpur to escape increasing religious violence at the hands of the Moslems in eastern Bengal.

Refugees who arrived in Calcutta reported that scores of villages in the Noakali and Tippera districts were set afire and hundreds of persons killed or maimed. The refugees said thousands face starvation because armed rowdies have disrupted rail and river transportation.

Citizens Speak Out On Vandals

Who do you think should be held responsible for the current wave of Halloween vandalism? Five Mansfield citizens give their answers in tomorrow's News-Journal.

An unusual, and exclusive condensation of Eugene O'Neill's "The Iceman Cometh" will be found on Page 20, while in the second a series of Sunday cartoons, Staff Member John Mine depicts "Last Week in Mansfield."

The U. N. General Assembly meets at Flushing Meadows, N. Y. on Wednesday. Read what it hopes to achieve. Another historical story will tell you about Galion.

TWO TOWNS DARKENED BY VANDALS

Wedding Supper and Banquet Held By Candlelight; Power Off 5 Hours.

TIRO—A wedding supper at Tiro high school and a banquet at the Odd Fellows hall were held by candlelight and oil lanterns last night after vandals darkened the communities of Tiro and Sulphur Springs by shooting off insulators on power lines of the Ohio Power company.

An estimated 1,000 inhabitants of the two towns and surrounding area were without electricity for five and a half hours until workers repaired the short circuit, power company officials said today.

Farmers using electric milkers when the current went off at 5:45 p. m. were forced to complete the milking manually. Many worked late into the night before completing their chores.

Interrupted were the wedding supper for Jane Peterson and Harley Sharpless, of Celeryville, who were married yesterday afternoon, and a farewell dinner for Albert C. Wilson, Odd Fellows officer who has retired from his position.

Power was restored at 11:15 p. m., power company officials said.

CLAIMS SLAVS ENSLAVE YANKS

U. S. Files Protest Against Imprisonment of Americans.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The United States and Yugoslavia locked horns today in a bitter diplomatic debate over whether Tito's government has enslaved and caused the death of American citizens.

The state department charged Yugoslavia has thrown at least 165 into concentration camps, rented them out at forced labor without pay, shipped three to Russia, and permitted maltreatment fatal to as many as 10.

The Yugoslav charge d'affaires in Washington promptly countered with a press statement declaring that "under Yugoslav law, which is the only relevant law in this matter" the persons concerned are Yugoslav citizens.

The statement denied flatly that any Americans are enslaved, or that slave labor conditions exist in Yugoslavia.

The controversy exploded with an American note delivered in Belgrade yesterday, which asserted that persons having "a valid claim" to American citizenship were being denied their international rights.

Enlarging on the note, government officials said the American embassy in Belgrade had furnished details on the slavery charge, adding the fact that those held were of German ancestry.

Workers Can't Beef About This

NEW YORK —(INS)— Employes of the General Steel Products company enjoyed beef over the week-end—and how.

As each of the 150 workers got his pay check he also received eight pounds of beef free from the company. It was the first distribution of meat slaughtered by the company from its purchase of 38 steers in Texas.

BIG GAME: Tense, gay, eager, and worried faces of the young Mansfielders in the top photo register the excitement last night as the minutes ticked away in the final period with the Tygers trailing Massillon, 12 to 6. A few moments later their expressions all turned to joy when the Tygers tied the score. Before the game the Mansfield Senior high school Band Parents club entertained the Massillon high marching band with a pregame dinner at the high school cafeteria. In the lower left photo Katherine Donley, Mansfield, is shown presenting a persian kitten to Massillon bandsman Bradley Day. In the insert is Mansfield Drum Major Robert Them, jr., who did the "impossible" when he twirled his baton over the goal post crossbar and caught it behind his back. MEAT SHOPPERS BECOME WARY Pressure Developing Against High Prices.

(By Associated Press)

Only a small supply of fresh meat appeared in most of the nation's butcher shops today but already there were indications many customers weren't going to pay the higher prices being asked for steaks, pork chops, ham and other cuts.

Despite a flood of livestock into markets this week after removal of price controls, packers said that several more days would be needed to move even a "fair" supply of meat into retail outlets. But there was more meat in the country's butcher shops this weekend than for the last several weeks. And at much higher prices.

The American Meat Institute, representing the country's major packers, urged consumers to "shop around for the best buys" in meat and it appeared many housewives were heeding the advice.

Single Shotgun Blast Kills Two

CANTON—(INS)—A Canton man and girl were shot and killed by a shotgun blast this morning as they walked into the man's home in southeast Canton. Detective Capt. J. B. Quilligan listed the victims as Joseph Norcia, 29, and Shirley Ann Robinson, 22. The detective added that the ages were not definitely determined.

"The pair was felled by one shot from the weapon," Quilligan said, adding that "both the man and girl were hit in the neck and chest." Although "some members of Norcia's family" were said to be at home at the time of the murder, no witnesses could be located, according to Quilligan.

Colorful Ceremonies Opening Centenary

Colorful and impressive services marked the ordination of David Merriam Talbot at the Grace Episcopal church this morning. The church auditorium was nearly filled for the service.

The ceremony also opened the three-day observance of the church's centenary. The church was founded Oct. 12, 1846.

Very Rev. Corwin C. Roach, dean of Bexley hall, Kenyon college, preached the sermon. He said "the ministers of God are His weapon for spiritual warfare."

The boys' choir blended with the voices of the congregation as they sang the sermon hymn. The altar was decorated with lighted cathedral candles, and banks of white chrysanthemums stretched across the altar.

Right Rev. Beverley D. Tucker, bishop of Ohio, read the ordering of deacons. Richard Wright sang the offertory solo, "He Shall Feed His Flock," from "The Messiah."

Former Mansfielder.

Rev. Talbot is the son of Dr. and Mrs. D. R. Talbot, former Mansfield residents who now live in Santa Monica, Calif.

He greeted friends and well-wishers in the undercroft at the church at the conclusion of the services.

At services tomorrow Rev. Tucker will administer the right of confirmation to the class of young people.

Church Hayride Ends In Tragedy

RACINE, Wis.—(U.P.)—Two 12-year-old boys were killed and 10 other children on a church school hayride injured last night when an automobile ploughed into the rear of their wagon.

The dead youths, both seventh grade pupils at St. John's Lutheran school, were Jerry Hack and Richard Schupe. The injured students were taken to St. Mary's and St. Luke's hospitals, where two of them were reported to be in critical condition.

Tygers Tie Tigers In Tough Tilt

By FRED THARP
News-Journal Sports Editor

Mansfield's Senior high school football aggregation held tightly to their place near the top of the Ohio scholastc football parade today after their thrilling, 12-12, tie with Massillon's Washington high school at Stadium field last night.

Omnipotent Cleveland Cathedral Latin, nominal Buckeye state leader, lost a lot of its prestige by tying Cleveland Holy Name, 0-0. And the Lions were harder pressed than Mansfield's Tygers to keep their 1946 slate clean as Holy Name had one TD called back.

It was the first time that Latin, which has not bowed in defeat since early in 1943, has been held scoreless in four years. The Lions have not been defeated in their last 30 starts.

* * *

Middletown Loses.

Mansfield and Cathedral Latin thus apparently, still are bellwethers in the ever narrowing select list of Ohio schoolboy elevens.

Mansfield has won five contests while the Lions have come out on the long end in four games—including a 14-7 conquest of Massillon.

Toledo Waite bounced back from its surprise defeat by Toledo Libbey, to swamp Steubenville, 32 to 13, last night. The Tygers collide with the Waite Indians in two weeks at Toledo.

Tenth-ranked Middletown dropped its first in six contests to Lima Central's all-winning Dragons, 7 to 0, while Austintown Fitch saw its hopes of an unbeaten season shattered by Girard, 6 to 0.

* * *

Fought Off Disaster.

Coach Paul Snyder's game outfit had to come from the brink of defeat twice as Massillon continued its dominance of one of Ohio's top high school gridiron series.

The Tigers have won 12 of the 15 games between the two schools

POWER STRIKE END FORESEEN

Pittsburgh Union Chief Says Workers Favor Arbitration.

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— An end to the power strike which has crippled the nation's 10th largest city for 26 days today appeared possible as the leader of 3,200 independent unionists said he believed they would vote for arbitration of the dispute.

President George L. Mueller, of the Independent Association of Duquesne Light employes, commenting on a general union membership meeting tomorrow, said:

"It appears that the members will vote for arbitration."

Mueller was interviewed before he departed by plane for Washington to lay the union's case before Labor Secretary Lewis B. Schwellenbach. He will return in time for the membership meeting. He said his recommendations to the meeting will depend on:

"What I learn from Secretary Schwellenbach. I want to talk to him personally. I never predict the future or what the union will do, but it appears the members will vote for arbitration."

The membership meeting—first in three weeks—was scheduled for 2:30 p. m. tomorrow. Allegheny county Sheriff Walter C. Monaghan was named vote teller.

Cotton Price Drop Results In Probe

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The Commodity Exchange Authority today opened a thorough investigation of slumping cotton prices with a threat of "appropriate action" if any market manipulation is uncovered.

At the same time, a government official predicted a "tremendous movement" of cotton goods to market by next February. He said this probably will force down retail prices.

One man was killed instantly and two others were seriously injured when their automobile left U. S. 30 seven miles east of Mansfield and crashed into a tree at 1:45 a. m. today.

The three men were returning to their home in Massillon after attending the Mansfield-Massillon football game here.

Dead was David Joiner, 27, who suffered a broken neck and fractures of both legs. State highway patrolmen reported his body was pinned in the car and acetylene torches were required to free the body.

Driver Injured.

The driver of the car, L. C. Jones, 39, received multiple lacerations of the jaw and chest and possible internal injuries. Another passenger, Jesse James Blount, 33, suffered a fractured right leg and possible skull and jaw fractures.

Both men were taken to Mansfield General hospital, where their condition today was reported fair.

State highway patrolmen said the car left the highway, sheared off a telephone pole and crashed into a tree. Jones was thrown clear of the automobile and Blount remained in the car.

Joiner's body was taken to the Finefrock funeral home. It is being removed this afternoon to Massillon where funeral services will be held Monday.

400 Drive to City.

The auto in which Joiner was riding was one of an estimated 400 which lined roads between Mansfield and Massillon for several hours before and after the game.

The fatal smash-up in which Joiner lost his life was the only serious accident reported in the busy pre- and post-game traffic.

This was the 16th fatal traffic accident in Richland county this year. At this time in 1945 the total was nine.

Top Educator Defends Joys Of Idleness

PRINCETON, N. J.—(AP)—The president of Harvard university was at odds today with the chancellor of the University of Chicago over what he termed the latter's "higher snobbery" in looking down on prevalent joys of leisure.

Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, Chicago university chancellor, had told a conference marking the Princeton university bicentennial celebration that "if we are not all killed in the next few years, we will be bored to death."

The Chicago educator's talk before a group of world scholars attending sessions on "the humanistic tradition in the century ahead" brought a rather curt reply at the conference's closing session from Dr. James B. Conant, president of Harvard.

"Such arguments underestimate the joys of leisure in the U. S. A., Dr. Conant said last night. "To many of us, the seats in the baseball grandstand still look more attractive than those in the reading room of the library."

Then, addressing Dr. Hutchins, Dr. Conant added:

"And you can't entice us with the higher snobbery. For if we can all have the knowledge for the asking, its snob value is very small. With education freely open to all, no mark of social distinction attaches to those let in on the secrets of the humanities."

Dr. Hutchins had said rather dryly that an "era of leisure and plenty" lies just ahead for the American people and commented that "the horrors of peace in the atom age are almost as bad as the horrors of war." The Chicago chancellor shook a warning finger at the educators as he remarked:

"The universities will be obsolete if they do not grasp the opportunities to make leisure time worth while."

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, October 20.

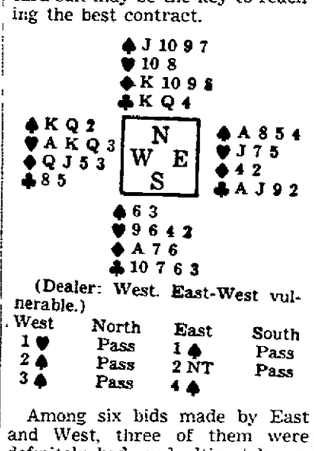
SUNDAY'S horoscope puts the emphasis on social, cultural, domestic and professional rather than business or sordid considerations. While duty, obligation and all needful activities may move in lucrative grooves, yet the pursuit of pleasure, in festivity and good cheer, may lure from sterner aims.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of progress, prosperity and happiness, in which the social, artistic and professional life and pursuits may enhance a felicitous state in which beauty, charm and magnetism heighten prospects for success and fair fortune. Home or romantic obligations and functions promise much good cheer and conviviality.

A child born on this day should be well equipped with creative skills and talents for a life of artistic, dramatic and romantic adventure. Its charm and personality should be aids to a happy career.

Barclay On Bridge

A PRETTY fair rule to apply to your bidding a pretty fair percentage of the time applies to the showing of an as yet unnamed four-card suit. Whenever you know your side has eight cards of a major, through your partner's messages, support of that is usually the first choice. Lacking that, a No Trump call may be advisable if you have all unbid suits soundly stopped. But, if neither of those conditions exists and you cannot rebid a major of your own, a call of another stopped four-card suit may be the key to reaching the best contract.



(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

Among six bids made by East and West, three of them were definitely bad, and ultimately resulted in a bad and unmakable contract. The defenders took two tricks in diamonds, one in clubs and one in trumps, whereas a No Trump game would have been unbeatable, with the declarer—whether East or West, and against any lead—scoring three tricks in spades, four in hearts, one in clubs and either one in diamonds or another in clubs.

The entire trouble was caused by neglect of either East or West to bid a four-card minor. The first wrong call was West's raise to 2-Spades when holding only three, whereas he should have bid 2-Diamonds, which would have steered the side into a No Trump game, since East had clubs stopped. The second bad bid was East's 2-No Trumps, when 3 Clubs would have given West enough information to bid the No Trump game without worry, in view of his own diamond stoppers.

Third among the bad bids was West's 3-Spades, which was extremely unsound after East's 2-No Trumps had warned him the spades were only four cards long. West could have saved the bacon there by bidding 3-Diamonds, and East then could have bid the game in No Trumps without a worry, in view of his clubs. But after the 3-Spades, East could do nothing but go to a spade game in rubber play, as he did.

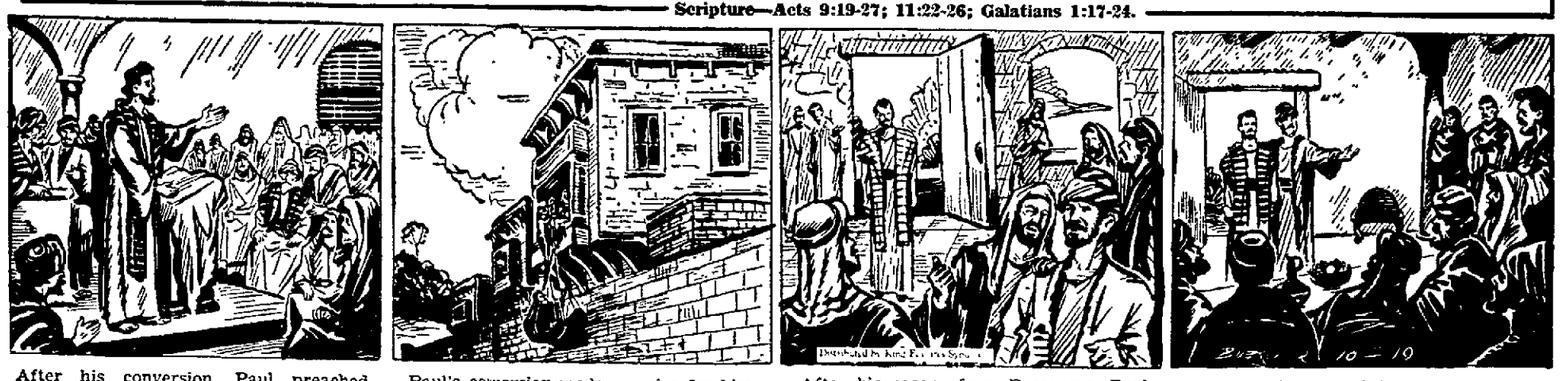
Paul Trains for His Life Work — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Acts 9:19-27; 11:22-26; Galatians 1:17-24.

By Alfred J. Buescher



After his conversion, Paul preached Christ in the synagogues of Damascus, that "He is the son of God," and all who heard him were amazed, asking, Is this not the man who persecuted Christians?

Paul's conversion made enemies for him who watched the city gates, seeking to kill him, but his friends let him down the wall in a basket from a house with windows above the wall.

After his escape from Damascus, Paul went to Jerusalem and tried to join the disciples there, but they were afraid of him and would not believe that he was converted.

Barnabas, however, believed in Paul, and took him to the apostles, and "declared unto them how he had seen the Lord," and had preached Christ at Damascus.

CHURCH SETS $13,685 GOAL IN FUND DRIVE

Presbyterians In City Join Campaign to Aid War Victims.

A quota of $13,685 has been assigned the First Presbyterian church as its share of the $27,000,000 restoration and reconstruction fund which the United Presbyterian churches of America have pledged for world post-war rehabilitation.

The campaign to raise the amount in the First Presbyterian church was opened Tuesday night when session members met for dinner at the Mansfield-Leland hotel and entertained church trustees as their guests. At that time, L. T. Powell and William T. McKee were named as chairmen of the church's campaign.

This sum will be given by church members as a sacrificial gift in addition to the annual church pledges, according to Rev. David N. Roller, pastor. It will not be raised through the usual channels of raising money for church projects, he said.

"We hope to be able to have this pledge entirely raised by Victory day, Nov. 3, when all the churches will unite in celebrating the success of this campaign," Rev. Roller said.

Just think of skiing to school every day. That is what KURTI AND HARDI did. Arthur Gates has told about them and their school in Switzerland. Kurti and Hardi are brothers who live high in the mountains. One summer a teacher from America came to visit them. One day she had a treasure hunt. Hardi hid the treasure and no one found it until almost night. Another day Kurti's foot was caught between two rocks. If he had not been very brave he might never have been found.

THE MONKEY WITH A NOTION, by Glenn Blough, is the story of Miss Peasley and her pet shop. Snicklefritz was the monkey. Snick had learned how to, open his cage and after Miss Peasley had gone home at night Snick let himself out. Then he let out the others, too, Reba, the parrot, Nick and Nack, the birds, and even Hyacnith, the skunk. He put carrots in the fish bowl and did other silly things that upset Miss Peasley. She didn't know about Snick's notion and thought that she was getting forgetful and doing odd things.

Back in the days when our country was new, before the states had been formed there was much fighting over boundaries. BORDER IRON, by Herbert Best, tells of the troubles between Massachusetts colony and York province. It began when Tod ran away from Ichabod Baker who claimed to be his uncle. Tod stayed in York with the workers in the iron mill. The ore came from Massachusetts and Ichabod schemed and plotted to keep Massachusetts ore from York mills as well as to get Tod back. Tod had to prove that he wasn't Ichabod's nephew. He, also, led the York boys in raids on the ore mines. He bluffed his way out of several ticklish situations and sometimes was saved by pure courage.

A less serious book is AUNTIE ROBBA, by Ann Scott-Moncrieff. Auntie Robbo was very old and Hector was very young. They led a happy, if unusual, life and were a little upset when Merlissa Murdoch announced that she was coming to tea. They feared that she would try to reform them. Merlissa announced, at once, that Hector must go to school and Auntie Robbo must be looked after. Neither liked the idea so they ran away. Then began a series of zany adventures that couldn't ever happen but it's ever so much fun to think that they could. Auntie Robbo and Hector and the three wrong children at last earned the right to live their own lives in their own way. For anyone who wants sheer fun, Auntie Robbo is just the thing.

MOST FOLKS RARELY USED LONG DISTANCE BEFORE THE WAR NOW THEY HAVE THE LONG DISTANCE HABIT!

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1946

Drive carefully tomorrow—and, by the way, have you had your brakes, lights, battery, and tires checked lately?

Pause, hesitate, reflect—MUST you have that piece of cheese NOW, while the price is so frightfully high?

Apples well-suited to pie-making are plentiful this season—but not so the sugar and shortening.

Byrnes Explains American Attitude

AMERICAN policy toward Soviet Russia is neither "tough" nor "soft," according to Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, who has just returned from the Paris peace conference and who last night gave a talk on foreign relations.

It is the hand of friendship that the United States is extending to Russia, Mr. Byrnes explained, and he deplored appearance of misunderstanding of that fact by representatives of Russia at the inconclusive Paris conference.

The charge by Russia that the United States was enriching itself during the war was particularly mystifying to Secretary Byrnes, who reminded that more than ten billion dollars in lend-lease had been advanced to the Soviet government for its prosecution of the war.

Strongest point made by Secretary Byrnes was his warning against continuance of talk about "the inevitability" of another war. "War is inevitable," he declared, "only if states fail to tolerate and fail to respect the rights of other states to way of life they cannot and do not share."

And that is such sound sense that it should impress every peace-loving American as well as the well-disposed people of all countries.

Shrine Sponsors Opening Attraction

MANSFIELD'S winter "season" gets formally under way Monday night when the Shrine club presents "Carmen Jones," the very modern adaptation of Georges Bizet's most famous opera.

The modern "Carmen" is, of course, considerably different from the original, although Bizet's music is used unchanged. The scene is moved from Spain to the United States. The hero is a prizefighter instead of a bullfighter. The colored cast has received wide acclaim across the nation.

Credit is due the Shrine club for bringing this widely-hailed stage production to Mansfield. But then, for the Shriners this is nothing new. In the past they have brought many outstanding attractions to Mansfield. Off-hand, one remembers Galli-Curci and "Crazy Quilt", for example.

On the success of "Carmen" Monday night depends plans of the club for bringing other attractions to the city. Advance ticket sale indicates that acceptance will be good but from a financial standpoint, naturally, the answer will not be known until all the bills are paid.

More Shrine productions would add considerably to the season's entertainment fare which already includes the Civic Music presentation of a pianist, a symphony, a quartet, and a soprano soloist. The Mastersingers will be back with two more concerts. And it is to be hoped the Community Players will find sufficient support to revive their worthwhile project.

Meanwhile "Carmen Jones" starts off what looks like an enjoyable winter for those interested in music and the stage.

'Beat Massillon' Still Unrealized

ANOTHER tie-up of the Mansfield-Massillon football score, third in the 15-year unsuccessful effort of the Mansfield "Tygers" to score a victory over the Massillon "Tigers," evidences progress toward that goal—although still short of the thrill that is to come with final accomplishment.

Last night's game at Stadium field was a record-breaker in the matter of attendance and interest—and was without doubt this week's outstanding high school game in the state. Both teams "fought hard" for victory and all participants merit commendation for the fine spirit of sportsmanship shown.

Attendance was far in excess of what is regarded as "capacity," and several thousand Mansfielders probably stayed away because of inability to secure seats. This is an effective argument for the projected new and much larger stadium, which is planned to accommodate 12,000 and which will be needed for what will be considered "ordinary sized" crowds within a few years.

No Haven for Forlorn Thousands

THE DEPTHS of homelessness has been reached by those curiously afflicted human beings known as "Volksdeutsche," citizens for generations of Poland, Rumania, Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia, whose ethnic origins are German Expelled by the Potsdam agreement from these countries, they are denied entrance to Germany, which cannot absorb any additional destitution.

These forlorn people have become bottlenecked by the thousand in Austria, where a Philadelphian, Arthur G. Billings, working for the American Friends Service Committee, found them in rags, without shoes, living in windowless, floorless sheds. Daily food was six ounces of bread, a bowl of soup and milk, miraculously provided by the city of Vienna. The Quaker's business was to get clothing, sent from America, to them, a priceless boon. Later, he reports, some were moved to better quarters where they slept on straw ticks instead of the ground.

But their ultimate fate cannot be foreseen. They form one of the tragic aftermaths of war. This sort of human problem explains in part why a peace settlement is so long in being reached.

Just What Is a 'Liberal'?

IN ACCEPTING his new job as editor of the New Republic magazine, Henry Wallace says he wants his writings to be looked on as "must" reading by liberals all over the world.

Commenting on this ambitious idea, James Marlow, of the Associated Press Washington staff, discloses that the weekly New Republic, founded in 1914, has reached a circulation of around 40,000 to 45,000, of which about 9,000 copies are distributed in New York. It appears that this magazine's appeal has always been along lines sympathetic with Mr Wallace's philosophy, so it may be wondered whether the probable output will suffice to reach "liberals all over the world." All of which may depend on nearer agreement as to what constitutes a "liberal."

Minneapolis Star-Journal comments: "It's remarkable how federal agencies and bureaus can take a molehill of confusion and work it up into a mountain of chaos."

By the way, what ever happened to Danzig, which was so much in the news as a vital factor in early stages of the second World war?

Politicians Are Busily Estimating Public Reaction To Truman Speech

By RAYMOND MOLEY

IN ANY EVENT, President Truman was provided plenty of meat for Republican speeches. It was a poor political speech. Apparently, he was trying to say that there are a lot of selfish people around and that he had finally decided to join them.

He proceeded methodically to pull the rugs from under most of those desperate Democrats who have, in various states, been trying to place the blame for the meat shortage. Some said that the missing meat was held by packers. The president said that the packers' cupboards were bare.

Others talked of seizing meat on the farms. This, Mr. Truman dismissed as impractical. Other Democrats demanded that Republican governors buy meat for the people of their states. This, by inference, the president also dismissed.

But it will win no votes to call the farmers selfish. What did Mr. Truman expect farmers to do back in August, but to sell a few animals when a restoration of price control was advertised well in advance?

Mr. Roosevelt used to talk about greedy people, but he never identified them. Mr. Truman is more specific. He had a whack or two for everybody—farmers, managers, industrial workers, Republicans and, indirectly, for Democrats as well.

It will be pointed out that in June and July the president fully supported the OPA's dire predictions of things to come under weakened price control. Three weeks without price control proved him to be a poor prophet.

He wouldn't sign the first bill, although his own leaders in congress said it was workable. Then another bill came along, not quite so good, and he signed it.

Mr. Truman would have us believe that the great feature about the bill he did sign was the decontrol board: it was to be judicial, independent.

But in his speech he announced the lifting of controls with not a word about the poor decontrol board. It is, then, exactly what some people thought it would be—an agent of the executive.

The president singled out Senator Taft for an extra spank when, in fact, Taft was largely responsible for the one blunder made by the Republicans which is now of help to Democrats. If Taft and others in July had simply permitted price control, except on rents, to die after the president's veto, whatever price rises that might have followed could have been attributed to White House stubbornness.

Now the issue is not so clear. The meat shortage is due to those who participated in the OPA revival under the second bill, and Taft and others share the blame with the president.

In the main, the advantage still is with the Republicans, for the president has an unexpected capacity to blunder. He waited too long, and election day will arrive while tempers are still warm. And meat will be high and scarce. The Democratic panic, so clearly apparent in many states, will hardly be stopped by Mr. Truman's speech.

Era of Materialism and Prejudice.

DENVER—There comes a time, as a reporter and a citizen, you get so filled up that you have to speak out for what it may be worth.

Traveling for three weeks across the country, watching and listening, has left the disturbing impression with this reporter that we, as a people, are about to lose our way in a frantic search for quick and present material gains.

The revolution is over. The counter-revolution is on. Neither term is used in the literal or sinister sense, but as symbols.

By the revolution is meant a spirit of orderly change that was moving among us, an adjustment to meet the demands of our modern world, both at home and abroad.

It expressed a fine appreciation of the value of a human being as such, and resulted in the taking of measures designed to give every citizen and his family a better opportunity to enjoy the good life that could be made here, not only in mere material things but in the spiritual and cultural benefits that a well-ordered economy permits.

It matters not that it was energized by a man by the name of Roosevelt; nor that it was called, in our typically American way, the New Deal. Those were merely the instruments. It was something that was bound to rise from the suffering that human beings endured in our greatest depression, and it would have come, no matter who the man, nor by what name we called it.

This process of adjustment was checked abruptly when our way of life was threatened from outside. But there is no doubt that the release of the average man from certain bondages in our economy, so that he had become a more free and self-reliant individual, contributed to the courage that took us to victory in our greatest war. To fight to preserve democracy meant something, because democracy was coming to mean something.

From the dross of war, from the suffering, the sacrifice, it seemed that something fine again was about to emerge.

But we appear to be losing it.

The counter-revolution is on in full swing.

Counter-revolution feeds and thrives on materialism and prejudice.

So today, everywhere you go there is the cry of "meat, meat!" Meat has become the symbol of a craving for everything material. It is a selfish, cynical cry in a land of plenty, for everywhere there is plenty. Instead of that, to hear the complaining, you would think this was a land of starvation and misery.

In an election in which there are so many more important things at stake, whatever your views, it became the major issue until a frightened and a harried president had to act so that the self-deluding hysteria could be assuaged.

It was, of course, a fake issue, created by clever propaganda of the counter-revolutionary forces of reaction. It was a hold-up. For now that the deed is done, now that the forces of greed have been compromised with, it does not mean meat for everybody at all.

Millions caught in the squeeze of inflation still won't be able to get it, and from the restaurants and dining rooms of those who can, there will be taken away plates with enough left to feed millions who are starving in other parts of the world.

Oh, that there were a voice to save us and tell us what cowards we have suddenly become! We, in the richest land in the world, with the finest and freest political system, cringe and crawl before a few little plotters and allow them to confuse us, and allow those who use them for that purpose, to confuse us."

Where is the courage that conquered a depression and won a war?

LOOKING BACK, for a moment, to the World Series windup, it seems to me that an example urgently needed by America today was "country" Slaughter's getting three bases on a double and winning the series. He took everything into his own hands, made his own decision and did the impossible

No thought of security first. No demand for guarantees. No fear that he would be doing more than his share. No feeling that an extra base would mean he was being exploited.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Removal of Meat Price Control Heralds Quick Wind-Up of OPA

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

PRESIDENT TRUMAN has ended meat price controls as the "only solution" to nationwide scarcity in the midst of plenty. The move forecast a speedy removal of ceilings on other commodities and led to speculation that all government curbs over wages and prices—except rents—would be dropped as soon as possible.

Mr. Truman's dramatic decision, climaxing a mounting furore over meatless menus, is a decision fraught with vital economic and political consequences.

The president was bitter. He laid the blame for failure of OPA at the door of "a few men in congress who, in the service of selfish interests, determined to wreck price controls no matter what the cost to our people." He made no distinction between Repjpublican and Democratic foes of OPA.

The president recalled that he had vetoed the first emasculated OPA extension bill, had signed the second measuse "with reluctance." He said he had "tried honestly and sincerely to administer this feeble law," but widespread violations and the intention of many congressmen to repeal controls as soon as the new congress meets made it hopeless.

Republican Rebuttal.

Republicans branded the president's speech as a "confession of failure," obviously political in intent. B. Carroll Reece, Republican national chairman, asserted:

"It's too late; the damage already has been done."

The political crossfire could be decisive in the Democratic fight to retain control of the new Congress to be elected Nov. 5 and it might well decide, too, the political future of Harry Truman.

The president said his decision to remove meat controls was made only after he had considered and rejected a price control holiday, higher ceilings, government seizure of packing houses and cattle on the range, and importation of foreign meat.

Economic Risks.

He warned both industry and labor that it would be "courting disaster" to refuse to make and sell goods freely. The risk is less than it would otherwise be, he added, because production in general now is increasing.

He emphasized the connection between wages and prices and promised that as "we speed up the removal of price controls, the removal of wage controls also will be accelerated."

Livestock prices rocketed at the stockyards in the first reaction to removal of controls. At Kansas City, choice hogs sold for $25 and $27.50, compared with ceilings earlier in the week at $15.95, and an August peak of $24.25. At Chicago, hog and cattle prices zoomed 60 per cent in some instances.

Resumption of the normal flow of cattle off the range to market was counted on, however, to end this wild scarcity buying.

At Home

Prefabs On the Line.

In an endeavor to spur laggard production of prefabricated housing, for which a rosy postwar future once was painted, Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt conferred with airplane manufacturers on a plan to mass produce aluminum houses. He hopes to induce them to enter the housing field as a sideline, continuing their plane manufacture at the same time.

Five aircraft companies are reported favorable to the plan under which they would apply for government contracts which would assure a market for all housing the manufacturer is unable to sell through his own distribution channels.

Four of the companies are on the west coast and one on the east coast but the National Housing Authority declined further identification of them at present.

Although a number of "ifs" enter into predictions, the NHA estimated that if all five plants get into production soon the output would total "100,000, more or less" during 1947.

Synthetic vs. Crude.

During the war the United States invested $670,000,000 in 51 plants producing synthetic rubber, of which all but a half dozen are still operating. Government experts predict demand will keep these 45 running at capacity for the next six months, despite growing supplies of natural rubber.

Experts differ somewhat on prospects after that. Synthetics surpass natural rubber for some specialized uses; whether they do for automobile tires and tubes still is a matter of dispute.

King Cotton Climbs Back.

Cotton, a strategic necessity in time of war for use in explosives, uniforms and tenting, is also a key peacetime bulwark. World trade in cotton has risen sharply since V-J Day although it is still far below the prewar average.

The U. S. department of agriculture reports that shipments totaled nine million 500-pound bales during the year ending July 31, compared with a wartime annual average of five million. The prewar annual average was 13 million.

The U. S. and other western hemisphere countries furnished a larger proportion than usual. American export totaled 3,678,000 bales, or 41 per cent of the world trade.

Battle of the Bulge.

The modern male has swapped his traditional sag about the middle for a slim, flat contour—a change which clothiers attribute more to the war than the meat shortage.

Back in the Century of the Common Man, short and stout models made up nearly a third of ready-to-wear suits; now they're hardly more than a fourth. The demand for long slim models has increased from 13 to nearly 20 per cent during the same period.

The National Retail Clothiers Association, which discovered the new American male figure in a survey of its membership, hazarded a guess that the change stemmed from physical training received by the men in service.

Abroad

Host to United Nations.

Diplomates are arriving in New York for the opening of the United Nations general assembly Wednesday at the site of the old World Fair, which itself was dedicated to the "World of Tomorrow."

Many of the diplomats came from the Paris peace conference where they struggled for 11 weeks to write treaties for five allies of Germany.

Among the 51 topics to be discussed by the General Assembly is the question of choosing a permanent U.N. headquarters.

The Big Four foreign ministers will meet in New York on Nov. 4 to take final action on the treaties with Italy, Bulgaria, Finland, Hungary and Romania, and to begin work on a treaty for Germany.

New French Charter.

French voters adopted a new constitution for the Fourth Republic by a margin of 1,212,000 votes—over the objection of Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

The referendum result, far from being regarded as a defeat for the wartime leader of the Fighting French, is considered strong testimony to his personal prestige. Almost single-handedly he nearly defeated the constitution, despite the fact tht it was backed by France's three major parties.

The charter gained 9,002,467 votes in continental France or 53.6 per cent of those cast. More than 31 per cent of the registered voters stayed away from the polls.

The constitution will take effect in early December, when Parliament is scheduled to be seated.

Willam Green, president of AFL: "Unquestionably the majority of membership of the CIO is composed of loyal and patriotic Americans who are now dismayed as they understand the use which Moscow is making of their organization."

Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief American prosecutor at the Nuernberg trials: "A large number of Germans remains unpunished. (Their) guilt does not differ from those convicted except that their parts were at lower levels and less conspicuous."

In Short

Requested: By the U.S., that Russia wind up an 11 billion dollar lend-lease account furnished it during the war.

Rejected: By the Supreme Court, an action to bar Sen. Theodore G. Bilbo (D-Miss.) from the Senate on the grounds that he had deprived citizens of their right to vote because of race and color.

Won: By the St. Louis Cardinals, the baseball World Series, defeating Boston's Red Sox four games to three.

Died: Gen. Joseph W. (Vinegar Joe) Stilwell, 63, commander of the U. S. Sixth Army, of a liver ailment contracted in the Burma jungles.

Calvin A. Byers

Farmer's Diary: "Wonders Near Home."

I OFTEN wonder why people long to travel far from home in search of strange adventure, and then return to tell the wonders they have seen.

There is charm to the listener, to be sure, in tales of foreign mountain peaks fringed with glacial snow; of lakes that mirror the blueness of foreign skies; of wild animals that live along torrid rivers far from us; of dangerous rocky trails and desert storms and nights of cold pouring rain when a sleeping bag was all that stood between the traveler and danger of death from exposure.

Even experiences in strange hotels — overcrowded huddles of army cots in corridors—the high price of food and the gnawing hunger that is never quite appeased—make awesome conversation to use on the stay-at-homes.

For me, I'd rather spend my days upon the slope above our cottage, to enjoy the aromatic flavor of native sassafras and the flaming coloring of the October countryside. Men sailed from Europe when all this land was wild, to gather stem and root of this same plant.

That slope is still an uncleared wilderness where many grasses, shrubs and rare specimens of young trees grow that I have never yet discovered. There are strange fungi that eat into the woody tissues of dead and living plants, there are races of bacteria that work between seams of stone where oxygen is lacking, and others that need certain temperatures before they mature.

Rare flowers bloom upon that slope, perfect in every part, yet small enough to be scarcely discernible. Vital seeds are dropped by migrating birds, or floated by wind or driving particles of moisture.

The myriads of insects that fly or creep or float within 100 feet of my own dwelling are as rare and interesting and important as any found in any portion of the globe. The land about my homely low-built cottage is strangely full of adventure — full of sights and sounds and odors. And by looking long and intently at the spot where a quail is hidden, even a man's dull eyes may at last discern the pretty head, the graceful neck, the shining bright eye and the mottled body—and his senses leap with delight at his knowledge of Nature's secret.

Emerson said it thus: "I go to the God of the wood, to fetch his word to men."

Trouble After An Operation.

FOLLOWING operations, a condition known as pulmonary embolism may develop. This is a condition in which a small bit of coagulated blood gets into the blood stream and is carried to the lung.

Although several methods of preventing this condition have become available during the last few years, according to Drs. Conrad R. Lam and Donald H. Hooker, of Detroit, the number of deaths resulting from this disorder is still too large

Study of Ages.

In studying cases which occurred in a series of over 100,000 operations during a 21-year period they found that pulmonary embolism occurred more frequently in men than in women, and, most often in the older patients. They noted that it occurred only once in persons under 20 years of age. Those between 40 and 50 years of age were most frequently affected, while fatal embolism was noted most often in those past 60.

Operations on the abdomen were most often responsible. Head and neck operations did not produce pulmonary embolism. Other operations in which this condition frequently develops are removal of the gallbladder, removal of the prostate gland, the uterus, hernia operations, and removal of the appendix.

The first sign of pulmonary embolism is pain in the chest. The spitting up of blood is also another frequent symptom. X-ray examination of the chest is, of course, helpful in making a diagnosis. The attacks tend to come on in most cases on the sixth and eleventh days following operation.

Preventing the Condition.

There are two substances which may be of value in preventing pulmonary embolism. These are heparin and dicoumarin. Both of these substances have the effect of slowing down the clotting of the blood. However, it would not seem advisable that these substances be given to every patient who has an operation.

Getting the patient up early after operation may be a helpful measure in preventing pulmonary embolism. In fact, this probably offers the most promise as a preventive measure which can be easily applied to most cases.

Another Traffic Hazard.

When a modern girl gets all decked out in her frilly finery she's a walking invitation to accidents, opines the National Safety Council. Her high heels may cause her to sprain her ankle; her veil, coupled with a cigaret may start a blaze; and her rings and bracelets can get tangled with machinery, if she happens to be a factory worker.

The council, however, overlooks the chief hazard. If the clothes plus chassis add up to whistle bait, the girl is a definite traffic hazard for ogling male drivers.

This is one driving hazard that requires extraordinary methods if it is to be reduced. Traffic cops can't arrest a shapely femme for strolling down the sidewalks. Nor can they pin a danger sign on her. Perhaps blinders, for the drivers, is the answer.—Akron Beacon-Journal.

USE FAKE LOVE CALL TO LURE TSETSE FLIES

Scientists Hope to Defeat Dread Insect Carriers of Sleeping Sickness.

BRISTOL, Eng. — (UP) — A phonograph record playing the mating call of the dread tsetse fly may sound the end of the insect's domination of vast areas of Africa and open a rich country to men until now balked by sleeping sickness.

A scientific examination begun in August, 1944, will end in October, when experts on the habits and life of the tsetse fly will carefully weigh results of their laborious experiments.

Success will mean mastery over the pest which renders great tracts of country in Uganda, Tanganyika and Rhodesia untenable to man and beast. Under direction of the government research department in Tanganyika, scientists of the empire have joined forces to bring hope that the insect carrying the sleeping sickness parasite which causes tremendous losses in cattle may at last be conquered.

The areas dominated by the tsetse fly would become rich pasture of great cattle herds, as well as a new frontier for ranchers and agriculturists if the experiments succeed.

For two years scientists have sought to render the tsetse fly sterile by hybridization among different species. They believe this system might be extended to the malarial mosquito and other tropical insects which carry disease.

Bristol University's F. L. Vanderplank, member of the research team, said three different species of the tsetse—the generic name for which is glossina—had been mated successfully.

Records Play Mating Calls.

He succeeded in doing this under artificial conditions by using phonograph records of the mating calls of the different types.

After the laboratory experiment, Dr. C. H. N. Jackson tried a full-scale test in the field. He introduced into an area with a calculated population of the tsetse swynnertoni, a new type of tsetse morsitans. That was done in August, 1944, and it was calculated that it would take 26 months for the morsitans to eliminate the swynnertoni.

By this month, the swynnertoni had been reduced to one-tenth of the original population.

When another variety of tsetses from Lake Tanganiyika were mated with a type from Lake Victoria—hundreds of miles apart geographically—it was found that 100 per cent of the Victoria females died as result of injuries in mating with males of the alien variety.

Another race or sub-species of glossina morsitans when produced with typical morsitans produced sterile male hybrids.

With the field experiment due to end in October, scientists continued to develop their theory and felt confident final results of the large-scale test will show their years of work have finally shown the way to eliminate another of nature's pests.

MADISON TAKES FOURTH VICTORY

SPORTS ROUND UP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP)—College football probably is having its biggest season on record, but there still are some coaches who aren't satisfied with the game that brings in all the dough. . . . The other day Marquette's Frank Murray suggested a requirement of six defensive players on the line to match the seven-man line required for the offense. . . . Another suggestion comes from W. A. Alexander, Georgia Tech's venerable athletic director. He figures the whole rule book should be rewritten to straighten out all the amendments and exceptions and also figures the free substitution rule will be altered because "some coaches seem to be trying to mastermind the game out of existence."

SPORTS BEROFE YOUR EYES

The Boston Garden, which will have a team in the new pro basketball league, a flock of college doubleheaders and over 100 schoolboy games this winter, is feeling the pinch of a referee shortage.

Word from Texas, possibly inspired by pessimistic coaches, is that "Texas doesn't have a great team." The same source, however, gives rave notices to Bobby Layne and Spot Collins and adds that the Longhorns' clash with Rice, "probably the best-manned team in the entire South" will settle the conference title. We'd still like to see an Army-Texas bowl game.

Bellville Tops Indians, 13-7

MT. GILEAD—Bellville's Bluejays defeated the Mt. Gilead Indians 13 to 7, on rain swept, muddy gridiron here, last night.

The Indians reached pay-dirt first after a 30-yard drive in the second quarter with Nelson Campbell slicing off tackle from the 10-yard stripe. Pete Campbell converted.

Bellville struck back in the same quarter. After a 40-yard march, the Indians were penalized five yards for off-sides, and Homer Walker cut off tackle from the two. Dave Worner converted.

Coming back in the fourth quarter, Bellville started a drive from its own 28-yard stripe and culminated the 72-yard romp with Jim Gleason, subbing for Smith, taking the ball over from the one-foot line.

Bellville compiled 16 first downs while the Indians were held to nine.

Rams Beat Chippewas, 26 to 6

By BRUCE M'GINTY

DOYLESTOWN—After being held to a one-point margin in the first half, Mansfield Madison roared back yesterday afternoon to defeat Doylestown, 26-6, in a Northeastern Buckeye league game here. It was Madison's fourth win in six games.

Madison won over New London 31 to 12 in the seasonal opener and then lost to Oberlin, 13 to 12, and the league-leading Orrville squad, 12 to 0.

Since the Orrville defeat, the Rams have beaten three league opponents, Rittman, 20 to 6; Loudonville, 19 to 0, and Doylestown.

Captain Jack Cleckner, who played a stellar game at tackle, received a broken nose in the fourth heat and was carried off the field. Cleckner recovered a Doylestown fumble and after going back into the huddle fainted and was carried from the field. Dick Morris was dazed from a shoulder injury in the closing minutes.

Jack Herr set up the first touchdown in the starting minutes. Herr kicked off and "Red" Frase of Doylestown fumbled the ball. Herr recovered on the Chippewas' 30 yard stripe.

On the fifth play Dick Ernsberger went off tackle from the three for the score. Ernsberger then converted and the Rams were out in front 7 to 0.

Doylestown's lone six points resulted from a Madison fumble. Frase recovered and on the second play of the second quarter the fast stepping Chippewa swept right end for 23 yards and a TD. Frase's conversion try was no good.

In the second half, Dick Schuttera returned the Doylestown kick-off 73 yards to the eight-yard line, but Madison was penalized for clipping and the ball was returned to mid-field.

Madison lost one scoring opportunity in the third quarter when Frase intercepted Schuttera's pass behind the goal line and returned to the 25.

Schuttera repeated Frase's performance and intercepted a Chippewa aerial two plays later. Ernsberger plunged through center for 10 yards and Herb Eldridge went off tackle from the eight to score. Ernsberger converted the second time and the Rams led, 14 to 6.

After the kick off, the Rams held the Chippewas for downs and Dan Stevens, tackle, broke through and blocked a punt on the 25-yard line.

Eldridge went off tackle for 10 yards and a first down and Schuttera made it another first down on the five. Herr then went off tackle for the third score.

The final touchdown was set up by Cleckner when he recovered a Chippewa fumble in the last minute of the game. On the first play Wayne Strang, second-string back caught a 40-yard Ernsberger aerial over the goal line.

Madison had nine first downs to five for the losers.

College Football Stands Alone In National Sports Spotlight

NEW YORK—(AP)—With the baseball season finally completed, football takes over the country's sports pages today, the spotlight shining on Tennessee-Alabama clash, Texas-Arkansas and Army-Columbia.

The Crimson Tide and the Volunteers, both unbeaten, meet at Knoxville with the winner anticipating little difficulty the rest of the way in winning the Southeastern conference title and a possible bowl invitation.

The West Point Cadets take on Lou Little's unbeaten Lions at Michie stadium in attempting to stretch their consecutive win streak to 23 games and Coach Earl Blaik's marauders are 20-point favorites.

The Texas Longhorns second to Army in the national rankings, battle the once-tied Arkansas Razorbacks at Austin Tex., in its Southwest conference opener.

In the midwest, the center of attraction again is at Ann Arbor Mich., where the Wolverines tackle the unbeaten Northwestern Wildcats.

Indiana's defending Big Nine champions take on an underdog Iowa eleven at home while Ohio State's Buckeyes tackle a crippled Purdue Boilermaker machine and Wisconsin goes after its second conference win at the expense of Illinois.

On the Pacific coast, the interest is divided between the UCLA Bruins-California clash and the Oregon-Washington State engagement.

Notre Dame, which has run roughshod over Illinois, Pittsburgh and Purdue, enjoys a holiday.

Elsewhere around the grid front the Kansas Jay Hawks put their Big Six claims on the line in a tussle with Nebraska.

Other eastern attractions find Michigan State at Penn State, Syracuse at Holy Cross, St Mary's at Fordham, Yale at Cornell Dartmouth and Brown at Providence and Rutgers at Princeton.

The University of Detroit scored an upset last night when it came from behind in the last minute and a half of play to score seven points and defeat Tulsa's previously unbeaten Golden Hurricane, 20-14, before 20,200 fans at Detroit.

Maryland won 6-0 over VPI and Temple scored its first win of the year by nosing out West Virginia, 6-0.

CUP OF JOY RUNS OVER—Part of the 8,000 fans who witnessed the clawing battle between two Tyger-Tiger elevens, give vociferous approval as the hard-fighting Mansfield Tygers score their second touchdown to tie Massillon, 12-12, at Stadium field last night. Ralph Majors went over from the six-yard line after the Tygers had driven from their own seven-yard line.

TYGERS TIE TIGERS; RETAIN RANKING

while three starts have ended in tie scores.

The largest crowd ever to jam its way into the outmoded Tyger athletic plant was "tickled pink" as Mansfield fought the vaunted Massillon powerhouse to a standstill. More than 8,000 rabid gridiron fans filled every nook and cranny of Stadium field.

As expected, the forward walls of the Tyger-Tiger gridiron machine clashed with force seldom witnessed on a high school football field. But it was not a battle of defense; it was a fight to the finish of savage offensive maneuvers with Massillon holding the edge in yardage, 217 to 165.

For all of the hard, tough play there was only one major penalty assessed. The Tygers were guilty of clipping in the second heat.

Long marches completely dominated play in the last half with Massillon holding a 6 to 0 lead acquired in the second period.

Mansfield pieced together drives of 88 to 93 yards for its two scores while the visiting Tigers counted on a 80-yard march and had the ball on the five-yard stripe when the gun ended the conflict.

Ralph Majors, the outstanding running back on the field, turned in the longest gallop, 19 yards in the third period, and gained 89 yards in 15 trips with the pigskin. Kenny Horvath was second in ground-eating with 71 yards. Gene Zorger topped Massillon with 64 yards, Al Brown had 60 and Alex Giloff, 59.

Tygers Stop 'em.

The Massillon gridders started out as if they meant business by driving 62 yards on the opening kickoff before Mansfield held for downs on the 20. The Tygers came right back to pound 55 yards to the Black and Gold 25 before losing the pigskin.

In the second stanza, after Mansfield had lost 20 yards on penalties, Merle Darrah intercepted an Ollie Cline aerial on the Mansfield 45 and returned to the 31. Five plays moved the ball to the six.

Zorger swept to the one and two plunges netted only 20 inches. On fourth downed Giloff surged through the Mansfield forwards for the score. Al Brown's kick was low but the Tygers were offside. His second kick also skittered away

Mansfield took a new lease on life to open the second half. Ollie Cline returned the kickoff 18 yards to the 30 and the Snydermen were off to the races. Majors picked up nine yards on two carries and Horvath blasted to the Tyger 48.

Majors carted the leather to the Black and Gold 33 Then Horvath climbed into the driver's seat. The powerful fullback carried seven straight times to the two and barreled over on the eighth play. Ross Frisbee's placement try was blolked.

Massillon's 80-yard touchdown trip followed Cline's kickoff to Zorger on the 20. He returned to the Mansfield 40. The Tiger ballototers, Zorger, Brown and Giloff, alternated in covering the last 60 yards in 12 plays with Brown counting from the five.

Chased Back to 18.

Two Mansfield tacklers broke through the Tiger blockers and chased Brown back to the 18 but the sophomore speedster got away and outran the defenders to go into pay dirt. Zorger tried a sweep for the extra-point but was swarmed under on the one.

Bill McKee touched off the fire works for Mansfield's tying touch down by returning the Tiger kick off 30 yards to the 37. Majors and Horvath took turns in advancing the ball to the Massillon 24 Cline "boot-legged" the pill to the 22 and made a quarterback sneak good for three yards and a first down on the 19

Majors picked up five yards on an inside reverse and on a quick-opener from the T cavorted to the six. He then waltzed wide around left end to score without a Tiger coming close.

Frisbee's attempted placement barely missed the uprights and the score stood at 12-12 with only five minutes remaining.

Massillon came back with a vengeance as Zorger bolted 57 yards to the Tyger 43 with Frisbee's ensuing kickoff. The drive petered out when Jim Sinerson recovered a Massillon bobble on the 36.

Immediately, however, a ball-handling mixup in the Mansfield backfield gave Massillon the ball again on the 34. The Tigers moved to the five with second down and goal as the game ended.

Massillon made 14 first downs to 12 for the home club. The Tygers made only three first downs in the opening half to Massillon's eight, but outgained the Tigers nine to six in the third and fourth quarters.

Shelby Whippets Honor Dads With Victory Over Bellevue

SHELBY—Shelby Whippets won their fourth consecutive Northern Ohio league football game Friday night by defeating Bellevue, 20 to 6, before 3,000 grid fans here on their annual Dad's night program.

The Whippets took a 7 to 0 lead in the second quarter and added two touchdowns in the third period to give Bellevue its fifth straight loss in league competition.

Coach Al Fendrick's charges made 12 first downs to five for the visitors.

Fullback Bill Keiser raced 49 yards in the second period for the Whippets' first score. Stanton Jones, Shelby halfback, kicked his 13th placement out of 14 for the extra point, making the score 7 to 0.

After sustained drives of 50 and 49 yards, Jones ran four yards to score for Shelby in the third period and Leo Fackler raced five yards for the final touchdown in the same quarter. Jones kicked his 14th placement of the season for the extra point, but Hal Maier, substitute halfback, missed his try, leaving the score 20 to 0 going into the final stanza.

Bellevue's only score came late in the fourth period while Shelby's third stringers were in the game. A pass from Shelley to Brucker accounted for a total of 77 yards and a touchdown. Ball's kick for the extra point was no good, making the final score 20 to 6.

The fathers of the Whippet players were honored during the game with special seats behind the Shelby bench. Numbers corresponding to their sons were pinned on their backs.

Hold That Ty(i)ger

The win continues to keep Shelby in the lead in the Northern Ohio league grid race. Due to the annual teachers' convention on Friday of this week, the Whippets will travel to Norwalk for a league game Thursday night.

8,000 GRID FANS BUBBLE OVER AT "REAL" BATTLE

By JOE EVANS

Mansfielders last night really saw a football game—a contest between two behemoths of Ohio schoolboy pigskin circles!

And a week's—yea, a season's pentup enthusiasm that developed into rabid partisanship went for naught as the Mansfield Tygers and Massillon's Black and Gold battled to a 12-12 tie.

Forty minutes before game-time few if any seats were left unfilled. And school officials said that a two-block long line awaited the opening of standing-room-only ticket sale at 6:30 p. m.

As early as yesterday afternoon, the tenseness of a football-minded city could be felt. And by 6:30 all avenues of travel to Stadium field were jammed with fans—traveling by car, bus, on foot and even pedalling out on bicycles.

Came 8 p. m. and a more-than-typical pushing, yelling and even pleading crowd had jammed the proverbial rafters of the Tyger's playing field

More than 8,000 victory-over-Massillon hungry grid followers had braved a chilling wind that followed in the wake of a 24-hour deluge from the skies. And Stadium field, muddy in spots, awaited only the referee's whistle for the contest to begin.

Not only was every seat taken and available standing room filled, but utility poles surrounding the field held their quota of fans who had climbed them to witness the show. Some were even perched on the high school building, while others stood atop parked cars and other vehicles.

This was football drama with a capital D—the crowd at times raucous and yet strangely hushed and tense as the teams lined up. All seemingly had but one thought—BEAT MASSILLON .

At halftime, the Washington high school marching band, the first among Ohio high schools to organize a swing band, put on a stellar exhibition—serenading first one side of the field and then the other. Formation after formation was executed without flaw, and a massed brass section really gave out with "The American Patrol" in swing time.

For the Tyger musical outfit, Drum Major Bob Them, jr., stole the show. His successful attempt at tossing his baton high over the goalpost crossbar and catching it behind his back brought plaudits from the assembled football followers.

Following the musical number, Midget Mickey, the Massillon mascot, soloed a cheer-leading performance of the Mansfield rooting section.

During the intermission, despite the 6-0 lead of Massillon, stalwart supporters of the Tygers were loathe to consider anything but eventual victory. Said Edward A. Pottle, 60, of near Mansfield, "It's been a whopper of a game, and I've got my fingers crossed for I'm thinking about those 14 long years without defeating them devils."

And all his 10-year-old grandson, Johnnie, could manage was, "Gosh." He had a mouthful of popcorn at the time.

Repeated chants of "Hold that Tiger," and "We want victory," however, were not to be granted. And as the game wore on to its approaching conclusion, enthusiasm never died out. Not a fan was seen leaving before the final whistle blew to end a stirring, hard-fought contest.

Now another wait of at least a year over the arch-rivals from Massillon must ensue, for the game ended, 12 to 12.

Baseball Sets Fan Records

NEW YORK —(AP)— More than 18,000,000 fans paid their way into major league baseball parks during 1946 with the New York Yankees establishing a new individual record with 2,309,029 spectators, unofficial figures compiled by the Associated Press disclosed today.

Grand total of both the American and National leagues was 18,612,704, increase of 63 per cent over the 1945 total of 11,375,185.

The American league drew 9,666,421 while the National's turnstiles clicked off 8,946,283. In 1945, the junior loop drew 6,002,366 and the senior, 5,372,819.

Although they wound up in third place, the Yanks' mark broke the previous high of 1,485,166 established by the pennant-winning 1929 Chicago Cubs.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, National league runner-up, lured 1,796,155 customers, tops for the circuit. The Detroit Tigers of the American circuit also beat the former Cub mark by drawing 1,722,590 to Briggs stadium.

Ten of the 16 teams drew more than one million paid admissions as compared to five last season and none in 1944.

THE WISE ONE

Mr. and Mrs. Quack the Mallard Ducks and their three children had said good-by to Mrs. Black Duck in the rice growing along the Big River and were once more on the long flight to the Sunny South to spend the winter. With them was Old Pintail. Perhaps I should say that they were with Old Pintail, for he was leading the small flock. It was not for nothing that he was known among his friends as the Wise One. He had made the long flight several times, and there was a little about its dangers and how to avoid them that he didn't know.

Mr. Quack flew close behind him. The three young Quacks came next, then mother, to see that none of the youngsters lagged behind. They had started at daylight and had flown hard and fast, for Old Pintail is swift of wing. Part of the day they had flown high, where there was no danger from guns. Now in the late afternoon they were lower. Pintail was looking for a place where they could eat and rest in peaceful safety. The three young Quacks hoped he would find such a place soon. They were getting weary of wing, for it was the longest flight of their short lives. They wanted to rest. Also, they wanted to eat, for they were very hungry.

Time after time they flew over the most tempting looking feeding grounds. Pintail led them high when passing over. They couldn't understand this until as they flew over one such place, a most inviting place, they saw another flock of Ducks below them, just setting their wings to alight. Then from a place where the rushes seemed to be thicker than anywhere else rose two hunters. There were several flashes and sharp reports and three of that flock fell on the water, two lying motionless on their backs while the third began to swim frantically. There was another flash and bang, and that one lay still. Pintail had seen that place where the rushes were thickest and had known it for what it was a blind, as such a hiding place is called by the hunters who make them.

"I wonder if he knew those dreadful hunters were hiding there and if he did how he did," said one of the young Quacks to the others.

"Perhaps he wasn't going to stop there anyway," replied another.

"He knew," quacked their father. "I thought so myself, but I wasn't quite sure. Old Pintail was."

For a short time the young Quacks forgot they were tired and hungry. Then, having recovered from their fright at the dreadful thing they had seen, then once more began to think of rest and eating.

Ahead they saw a great bed of rice. There would be good eating there and plenty of it. At the edge of the rice in the open water was a flock of Ducks, twice as many as in their own flock. Of course, that meant safety and of course Old Pintail would lead them down to join the others. How good it would seem to rest on the water. Their wings were very tired.

Pintail wasn't slanting down to light on the water. Instead he was flying a little higher. Perhaps he was going to swing around in a big circle just to make sure that everything was at it should be. Could it be that he hadn't seen those other Ducks down there? He wasn't circling. He was keeping straight on. What was the matter with him, anyway?

Later, much later, when at last they were safely bedded down for the night the boldest one ventured to ask their leader why he hadn't stopped where those other Ducks were.

"There was something wrong there," replied the wise old leader as if that explained everything.

"I didn't see anything wrong. If you please, what was wrong?" persisted the young Quack.

"Did you see one of those Ducks move? Did you see a single head turn? When so many Ducks are at rest and not one moves something is wrong, very wrong. Don't forget that," replied Pintail.

Probably two hunters are still wondering why that flock, led by wise old Pintail, didn't come down to their wooden decoys.

DRAMATIC LESSON IN SAFETY—David Joiner, 27, of Massillon, his twisted body half-lying on the ground, was killed instantly about 2 a. m. today when the automobile in which he was riding left the highway seven miles east of Mansfield and crashed into a tree. Joiner's body was pinned in the car and torches were necessary to free him. Two other companions were seriously injured. The three men were en route to Massillon, their home, after seeing the Mansfield-Massillon football game last night. (See story on Page 1.)—Staff photo by George Petrovich.

Mansfield Beats Wyatt by Months

Mansfield is months ahead of housing Expediter Wilson W. Wyatt. Wyatt yesterday called on all cities to restrict building permits in a drive against illegal and unauthorized construction.

The National Housing agency announced the preparation of a "model" city ordinance that would prohibit the issuance of permits to applicants who have not obtained federal approval.

City officials recalled today that Mansfield began requiring federal approval as a prerequisite for issuance of city permits last March 26.

Byrnes Advocates Firm Russian Policy

Winchell — On Broadway

DEVILS ABOUT TOWN: Benedict Arnold telling Pierre Laval that Bilbo and Rankin are the greatest congressmen America ever had. . . . Himmler rocking with laughter while he reads about the persecutions in Yugoslavia and Palestine. . . . Mussolini greeting coward Goering and the other supermen and wondering why it is taking so long for his chum Franco to arrive there. . . . Goebbels shouting that the Moscow propagandists are stealing his stuff. . . . Nazi Gen. Rommel discovering the meaning of Hell when he learns the Allies are kowtowing to most German militarists in an effort to win the support of Germany for the next war. If General Rommel had lived—he might have become a big shot! . . . One devil insulting another by telling him to "go to earth!"

* * *

Satan's Sallies: A politician and a diplomat were arguing about who had done the most to ruin civilization. The politico bragged he had caused humanity the most heartaches by taking advantage of chaotic conditions to bamboozle the people. . . . Whereupon the diplomat gloated: "But remember it was I who created the chaos first!" . . . Satan says the world wouldn't be going to Hell if the troublemakers in it would go first.

* * *

Memos of a Hell-Raiser: Hades has only two best sellers. They are Karl Marx's "Das Kapital" and "Mein Kampf." . . . The devils are threatening to sue the Ku Klux Klan for unfair competition. . . . A recent poll has revealed the most popular words in Hell are "appeasement" and "power politics." . . . All censors and Winchell editors are punished here by being forced to exist without a blue pencil. . . . Huey Long has sent a note of congratulations to those responsible for delaying the trial of the 26 alleged seditionists. Hmf!

Next World Street Scenes: The arrival of the so-called good Germans accompanied by the chumps who insisted those Germans could be trusted. . . . A fleet of U-boats anchored in the River Styx. . . . Communists and Fascists jabbing each other with their horns. . . . A group of happy devils wagging their tails when they heard the news about the flop of the Paris Conference. . . . A monument being erected to honor those who are urging an atomic war. . . . Hades citizens being forced to sit through a double feature every day.

Novelette: His life was built on a mountain of cadavers. His biography was written in blood. He murdered, starved and tortured millions of innocent humans. He ranted and raved and built a great military machine. . . . His aim was the obliteration of civilization and his target was humanity . . . But all his strength and brutality could never achieve his evil plans. . . . Yet those who defeated him are now haunted by his ghost. His spirit is now writing the history of the world. He exists wherever there is fear, hatred and suspicion. . . . Those who destroyed him are now trying to destroy themselves —because they have forgotten his body wasn't their greatest foe—only his mad ideas. . . . And as long as we fail to eradicate his ideas, A. Hitler will be the most popular pitch-fork carrier in Hell.

Lippmann — Today and Tomorrow

LET US TAKE a look at the cry, now being strenuously circulated, that the Soviet expansion into Europe could have been prevented if President Roosevelt had not "appeased" Stalin. Senator Taft has made this theory into official Republican party dogma by saying in his speech of Sept. 11 to the Ohio state Republican convention that—

President Roosevelt and President Truman at Tehran, at Yalta, at Potsdam and at Moscow pursued a policy of appeasing Russia which has sacrificed throughout eastern Europe and Asia the freedom of many nations and of millions of people.

Now President Roosevelt is dead, and Mr. Harry Hopkins is dead, and so they cannot give their own account of what they did and why they did it. But there were others at the conferences when the agreements with Russia were made, notably Mr. Churchill and the British chiefs of staff, Admiral Leahy, Gen. Marshall and Admiral King, as well as Charles E. Bohlen, who is Byrnes' principal adviser on Russia. None of them has as yet suggested that the agreements with Stalin were dictated by Mr. Roosevelt personally, or that against their judgment and advice he appeased Russia.

* * *

PERHAPS THAT is because they know what Taft does not know, or would like us to forget, that the Tehran agreements, which marked out the zones of influence, were built upon strategical war plans that were dictated by the military situation.

It is, therefore, useful to recall what was the military situation when this conference took place. I shall take the facts from the diary of Capt. Harry C. Butcher, who was naval aide to Gen. Eisenhower. On Jan. 29, 1944, which was shortly after the decisive conference at Tehran, he notes that "The length of the front line in Russia as measured on the map is slightly more than 1,900 miles. . . . Our intelligence shows the Russians have 430 divisions and the Germans 200 plus on the Russian front." We were fighting in Italy; the great offensive into France was set to take place four months later. Mr. Roosevelt was commander in chief, and he was no less interested than was Gen. Eisenhower or the combined chiefs of staff in seeing to it that the 200-plus German divisions pinned down on the Russia front were not waiting for our troops on the beaches of Normandy.

For, as Capt. Butcher tells us in an entry on March 18, 1944, the estimate of land forces which would be available on May 31 for the landing were 10 British infantry divisions and 13 American. A month later, six weeks before our landing, the intelligence services reported that the Germans had 336 divisions in Europe. Of these, 51 were in France and the Low Countries, 23 were in Italy, and about 235 were on the eastern front or in countries of eastern Europe.

When we hear men say that Roosevelt appeased Stalin in eastern Europe, let us be honest enough to remember what would have been the cost in British and American lives if the Red Army had not carried on its offensive which pinned down and chewed up about two-thirds of the German infantry divisions. That is what Mr. Taft has decided to forget. But he was not the president of the United States and the commander in chief responsible for winning a terrible war with the smallest expenditure of human life. Roosevelt was. His first consideration was to make sure that the Red Army would be attacking on the largest possible scale and would be advancing as deeply and swiftly as possible into German-held territory as Gen. Eisenhower launched the invasion of France.

* * *

THE INHERENT absudyity of Mr. Taft's view becomes plainer in Mr. William C. Bullitt's recent book. Mr. Bullitt shares Mr. Taft's views. But unlike Mr. Taft he attempts to argue the case, and in spelling it out, he spells out its absurdity.

The major premise of Mr. Bullitt's book is that we should not have given lend-lease aid to Russia unless Stalin gave us a written guaranty that he would accept the frontier of 1939 as his western boundary. "If we had obtained from Stalin," says Mr. Bullitt, "a written promise to keep his hands off Europe and he had respected it, all the world would have gained. If he had given such a promise with the intention of breaking it ultimately, he would at least have had to behave as if he had no intention of breaking it so long as he and his country were dependent for their lives on aid from the United States."

But that is just what happened. Mr. Roosevelt did get a written guaranty right after Pearl Harbor when Russia, which was then fighting for its life, subscribed to the United Nations declaration and the Atlantic Charter. And Stalin did behave as if he intended to abide by his promise until in 1943, before Tehran, when the Russians were no longer fighting for their lives, and when we faced the awful ordeal of the invasion of Europe.

5-YEAR SEARCH ENDS AS FBI NABS NAZI SPY

Agents Arrest German-Born Argentine Citizen On His Arrival From Canada.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Teodore Erdmann Erich Lau, 44-year-old German-born Argentine citizen described by the FBI as the key figure in a notorious German spy ring, was held by federal authorities today on espionage charges, climaxing a three year hunt on three continents.

The FBI said last night, in announcing his arrest, that Lau was the paymaster of the Kurt Frederick Ludwig spy ring which the government said relayed sufficient information to Germany before it was uncovered in 1941 to account for the sinking of at least 12 Allied vessels.

Lau was arrested by federal agents Wednesday upon his arrival from Canada—his first visit to the United States since he fled in 1941, at which time he was known to government investigators only as the mysterious "Bill," whose name appeared on captured spy documents written in invisible ink.

Lau was arraigned yesterday before Federal Judge Simon Rifkind on the espionage charges and bond was set at $50,000.

Nine members of the Ludwig spy ring, which planned to send to Germany information on convoy movements, location of armaments and military information, were sentenced in March, 1942, to a total of 132 years in prison. Ludwig himself received 20 years, the maximum allowed by law.

The FBI said the first clue to Lau's role in the German spy activities in the New York area came on March 18, 1941, when Captain Ulrich Von Der Osten, "mastermind" of the Ludwig ring, was killed by a taxi cab in Times square. Ludwig, who was with him, snatched Von Der Osten's brief case and fled in the crowd.

"Subsequently Von Der Osten's notebook was recovered by the FBI and the name Bill was mentioned prominently in a secret ink letter sent by Ludwig describing the fatal accident of Von Der Osten," the FBI announcement said.

THREE LIQUOR CASES HEARD

Continuances Are Granted In Municipal Court.

The cases of three persons charged with keeping places where intoxicating liquors are sold illegally and with illegal sale of liquors were continued until Oct. 31 after hearings in municipal court today.

Charles Clements, 227 North Franklin avenue, pleaded guilty to the first charge and not guilty to the second charge. He was freed on $500 bond on each charge.

Clements was picked up by Mansfield police at 11 p. m. Friday on complaint of state liquor officers.

Deny Charges.

Clarine Davis, 224 North Main street, pleaded not guilty to a charge of keeping a place where liquors are sold illegally. She was placed under bond of $500.

Thelma Butler, 62 Bushnell street, pleaded not guilty to a charge of illegal sale of intoxicating liquors and was put under $500 bond.

The women were picked up at 224½ North Main street at 11:45 p. m. yesterday. State liquor officers said beer, whisky and gin was found in the establishment.

Richard K. Dickson, 76 Rambleside drive, was fined $75 and costs on a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol. His driver's license was suspended for six months.

Speeders Penalized.

John P. Talboo, Cleveland, and William B. Smith, Barberton, each forfeited $25 bond when they failed to appear to face charges of speeding.

Fined $10 on speeding charges were Sidney A. Eisenberg, Cleveland Heights; William E. Mapp, 329 Third avenue; William C. Kunkle, Ashtabula, and Frank E. Jankovsky, jr., Solon.

Nelson Schubert, 91 West Second street, was fined $10 on a charge of failing to stop within an assumed clear distance, and Dale Enzor, Greenwich, was fined $5 for failure to stop at a stop sign.

John Anderson pleaded not guilty to a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. He waived examination and was bound over to the grand jury under bond of $500.

Completion In 10 Days Seen For Airport Lighting System

If the materials become available, the $35,000 airport gift lighting system will be completed in 10 working days, Milton Staub, general manager of the Gustav Hirsch company of Columbus, reported today.

Completion of the project is being temporarily delayed by the lack of runway lights on hand, Staub said.

The Chicago office of the Civil Aeronautics authority in a letter to Staub said the Gustav Hirsch company expected delivery on more lights in a few days.

"All of the underground circuits are laid and we are past the stage where rainy weather will bother us but," the letter added, "we want to get the job done before the weather breaks for the worse."

The 51-foot beacon tower was also reported up at the airport.

The Columbus firm is installing the lights on a contract let out of Chicago.

The lighting system is a gift from the CAA to the city.

WANT PAY HIKES

Auto Union Heads Preparing New Demands On Industry.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The executive board of the United Auto Workers union worked today on a program of wage increases for half its 800,000 members, with CIO President Philip Murray called into the final planning session.

That the UAW planned to extend its demands for wage boosts and other economic gains to the entire industry was indicated by President Walter Reuther, at the close of the board's session yesterday.

Key to the new program is the union's contract with Chrysler, which contains a clause permitting wage rates to be re-opened for negotiation, providing notice is given within a specified time—and the deadline is today. Similar contracts are held with a number of independents and suppliers.

NEW STAMP

Farmer Claims Housekeeper Stole $1,000

Cash totaling $1,000 which he intended to use to purchase a new tractor was missing from the home of Henry Morganstern, Bellville, R. D. 1, today and Morganstern's housekeeper, Mrs. Anna Stewart, 43, was charged with grand larceny.

Mrs. Stewart, also known as Mrs. Anna Chaney, pleaded not guilty to the charge in municipal court and won continuance of her trial until Thursday. She was placed under $1,500 bond.

Morganstern said the money disappeared from a dresser drawer Thursday. He accused his housekeeper of taking the funds when she left suddenly without explanation Thursday afternoon.

Shelby police and sheriff's deputies apprehended Mrs. Stewart at the home of a relative in Shelby. Morganstern told County Prosecutor Theodore Lutz that he had been saving the money for several months.

Suspect Nabbed In Library; Police Aid Foils Car Theft

Four Mansfield policemen were forced to disturb the peace and quiet of the public library last night to catch a Shelby man accused of attempting to steal a car owned by a Mansfielder.

Early today, two Patterson field soldiers reportedly attempted to steal a car owned by a Mansfield patrolman but were foiled by the alertness of one of the police department's secretaries.

Police pursued the Shelby man through the library as book patrons crowded around to watch. The man was finally nabbed at the front of the library. He was held for investigation.

Pleasure Ride.

The man reportedly took a car owned by Lewis F. Hartman, 487 Edgewood road, sometime yesterday afternoon, drove it around the city and then returned it to its original parking place at the rear of the library.

A librarian said that the man came to the main desk and "mumbled something" and then, when he realized police were pursuing him shouted, "Oh, I left my book in my car," and ran to the front door. It was there that police trapped him.

Miss Carolyn Cox, police department secretary, reported to police that "two soldiers" were attempting to steal a car owned by Patrolman Marion Hardesty about 2 a. m. today.

Saw Them From Home.

Miss Cox said she spotted the two from her home at 388 West Third street as they attempted to move the car from in front of Hardesty's home at 373½ West Third.

She phoned police that the two were pushing the auto down West Third street. Police later found the car on Sycamore street and picked up the two GIs, ages 18 and 19, at West Fourth and Bowman streets.

The 18-year-old's home is in Sandusky; the 19-year-old lives in Alliance. Both also were booked on investigation charges.

Kalis' Condition Reported 'Fair'

Mike Kalis, 52, 388 Springmill street, who shot himself with a .38 caliber revolver after fatally shooting his wife, Helen, 43 and son, John, 20, Thursday morning, was reported in "fair" condition today in Mansfield General hospital.

Laff-a-Day

"At least, he was polite. He waved back."

Up and Down The Street

CALLS IT 'ENTERPRISE'—

The fact that The News-Journal editorial department has been moved from the third floor to the second floor was "real news" to Edward B. Cappeller, former publisher of the News. Writing from San Francisco, Calif., where his home is at 2484 Fourteenth avenue he says: "I never just computed how many miles I traveled up and down the two flights of stairs, but as I recall it now, it was some record. My opinion, from this distance, is that the change represents definite newspaper enterprise."

RAINED OUT—

The Prospect school children didn't get those promised pony rides Thursday afternoon. It rained.

The pony rides, sponsored by the school Mothers' club, were to have been available to the Prospect children at 3:30 p. m., and to the other city grade school children at 5 p. m. But unfavorable weather postponed the rides until a future date, when both mothers and children hope to secure the ponies again.

PLAY-GIVING SUCCESS—

"Operation-card playing" was reported by AMVETS as a success today with 355 decks of playing cards for use by hospitalized veterans turned in as a result of a drive begun about three weeks ago. "Mansfielders once again have shown that old community spirit," was the comment of Don Cram, of the YMCA who has the cards all bundled up ready to go on their mission of good will. "We mustn't forget our neighbors—Loudonville, Crestline and Shelby. They turned in quite a few decks, for which we are all most grateful."

DANGERS OF HIGH FLYING—

The next time Mrs. J. E. Droz, 579 Marion avenue, takes a plane for traveling, she's going to leave her cologne at home. Coming from Florida Thursday night, the high altitude caused a bottle of the toilet water "to evaporate" over six summer dresses. Now, faced with a trip to Texas next month, she's wondering where to buy new lightweight clothes. She sent all the cologne-spotted ones to the cleaners, hoping for a good job of "dyeing" but if that doesn't succeed, she's out of luck, she says, for Texas weather.

LEAVING FOR 30 DAYS—

A familiar face will be missing from the contracts office of the Mansfield Veterans Administration when Samuel Manning leaves temporarily to take over the Marion contacts office. Manning expects to be gone about 30 days. During his stay in Marion he will continue his itinerary route with the exception of Shelby, which will be handled by R. W. Schmunk of the contacts office, Mansfield.

Conservationists Rename Bromfield

Bromfield spoke to delegates at a banquet last night, and today convention members toured the University of Nebraska college of agriculture at Lincoln.

SEES NEED OF CONCESSIONS BY BOTH SIDES

Secretary Deplores Growing Tension, Affirms Hope For Just Peace.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Secretary of State Byrnes pointed the United States along a "patient but firm" foreign policy course with Russia today, declaring that this country will neither yield to all demands of other nations nor expect them to yield to all of ours.

Voicing concern over "the continued if not increasing tension between us and the Soviet Union," Byrnes urged rejection of the thought that delays in achieving peace "make armed conflict inevitable."

"It is entirely possible," he said in a radio report, last night on the Paris conference, "that the failure or inability of the Soviet leaders to rid themselves of that belief lies at the very root of our difficulties."

His address, obviously aimed at Moscow as well as his home audience, acknowledged Byrnes' distress over war talk which is "throttling the economic recovery of Europe," but affirmed his hope that a just peace can be attained without one-sided concessions.

Byrnes said this nation will stand "irrevocably" behind the "right of every people to organize their economic and political destiny through the freest possible expression of their collective will."

Offers Cooperation.

He made it plain that his goal is cooperation with the U.S.S.R.—but not continued concessions.

"We must be willing to cooperate with one another—veto or no veto—to defend, with force if necessary, the principles and purposes of the charter of the United Nations," he said.

An apparent reference to the debate which stormed up over Henry A. Wallace's criticism of the administration's policy toward Russia came in Byrnes' declaration:

"In following those policies we have been criticized at times for being too 'soft' and at times for being too 'tough.' I dislike both terms. Neither describes our earnest efforts to be patient but firm."

Wallace commented later: "After listening to the speech of the secretary of state I am more certain than ever that we must adopt a real American foreign policy. I am glad that he has progressed since his Stuttgart speech (warning that Germany must be neither 'pawn or partner' in any power struggle between east and west).

"I sincerely hope that further progress will be made and that the secretary of state will eventually realize that the American people demand justice, good neighborliness and peace in the world."

Denies Accusations.

Byrnes expressed "bewilderment" at Russian accusations that the United States "enriched itself during the war" and now seeks "to enslave Europe economically."

"Coming from any state these charges would be regrettable to us," he said.

"They are particularly regrettable when they are made by the Soviet government to whom we advanced more than ten billion dollars of lend-lease during the war and with whom we want to be friendly in time of peace."

Byrnes deplored "the tendency upon the part of the Soviet Union to regard states which are friendly to us as unfriendly to the Soviet Union and to consider as unfriendly our efforts to maintain traditionally friendly relations with states bordering on the Soviet Union."

He deplored also "talk of the encirclement" of Russia, saying that "we have it from no less authority than Generalissimo Stalin himself that the Soviet Union is in no danger of encirclement."

He detailed Russia's territorial gains as a result of the war:

"Koenigsberg, Bessarabia, Bukowina and Ruthenia are to be given her. In the Pacific, the Kuriles, Port Arthur and Sakhalin have been assigned to her.

"Certainly," he said, "the Soviet Union is not a dispossessed nation."

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), who accompanied Byrnes to the Paris conference, will give his views on the outcome in a radio interview (CBS) at 7 o'clock tonight.
